Keeping children safe

CHILD ABUSE OR SUSPICION OF CHILD ABUSE? THAT MUST BE REPORTED!

Child Abuse is the mistreatment of a child under the age of 18 by a parent, caretaker, someone living in the home or someone who works with children. This mistreatment may cause injury or harm or put the child at risk of injury or harm. Child abuse can be physical (bruises, burns or broken bones), sexual (fondling, penetration, exposure to pornography, or incest) or emotional. Neglect happens when a parent or responsible caretaker fails to provide adequate supervision, food, clothing, shelter, medical care or other basics for a child.

Then what happens?

When a hotline call is made, questions will be asked to determine whether to take a formal report. If a formal report is taken, a DCFS Investigation Specialist will begin the investigation.

Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS)

DCFS receives, investigates and acts upon a report of child abuse or neglect every five minutes, child sex abuse every hour, and the death of a child by abuse or neglect every day and a half. Thanks to a wide-range of services, fewer than one in 25 children are removed from the home, and half return home within a year.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR MAKING A HOTLINE CALL?

EVERYONE.

WHEN SHOULD YOU CALL?

IMMEDIATELY.

1-800-25-ABUSE

Take no chances in reporting suspected child abuse or neglect.
You risk nothing; they could lose everything.

When a call is made, a hotline social worker will listen to the report. The worker will ask questions and gather enough information to determine whether to take a formal report. If a formal report is taken, a child protection investigator will begin the investigation within 24 hours – much sooner if the child is considered in immediate risk of harm.

Any person who knowingly transmits a false report to the Department commits the offense of disorderly conduct under subsection (a)(7) of Section 26-1 of the Criminal Code of 2012. A violation of this provision is a Class 4 felony.
